

Science and Providence : God's Interaction With the World

By JOHN C. POLKINGHORNE

Templeton Foundation Pr October 2005, 2005. Paper Back. Book Condition: New. Does God exercise providential care? Can He be addressed in prayer? Or does our current understanding of physical process exclude this kind of relationship with God? These questions always rise to the surface of our thinking about science and religion, and, to his credit, Polkinghorne addresses them head-on. His conclusion, seemingly modest yet full of wisdom, that 'there is no more reason to doubt the coherence of belief in divine providential agency than there is to doubt our experience of human intentional agency' still frames the debate. Polkinghorne is here at his best: fluent, accessible, well informed, and staunchly faithful to orthodox Christianity.

READ ONLINE
[8.36 MB]

Reviews

Complete guideline for publication fanatics. It is written in easy phrases rather than hard to understand. I am very happy to inform you that this is basically the finest pdf we have studied in my personal life and can be the finest pdf for at any time.

-- Saul Mertz

This publication will be worth purchasing. Indeed, it can be enjoyed, still an interesting and amazing literature. I am just happy to inform you that this is basically the best ebook I have studied within my own lifestyle and may be the very best ebook for ever.

-- Dr. Furman Anderson Sr.