Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Two Years Course of Study in the Chinese Language, Vol. 1 of 4 The publication of this book is in no sense a reflection on the several good books now in use. The author, in his own study of the Chinese language, felt the need of a book containing short lessons, each of which could be easily and thoroughly learned in a day, thus emphasizing both system and thoroughness. Missionaries in the first few years learn from five hundred to one thousand characters so that they easily recognize them in the Bible, or in some familiar context; but would not be able to recognize many of them alone, or in unfamiliar places, because they do not know the component parts. No character is thoroughly known until its component parts are known. You do not know an English word until you can spell it. The older missionaries will find this method helpful in making their knowledge of the language more thorough and accurate, and it is hoped that many of them will make use of this book. The Union Language School at Shanghai showed a marked tendency on the part of missionaries to learn to write as well as to read the Chinese; and the analytical study of the character was quite popular, both with beginners, and with those who had studied the language for several years. The Plan of the Book Kang Hsi's Dictionary contains about forty thousand characters. Gile's large Dictionary contains ten thousand eight hundred and fifty nine separate characters. Five or six thousand characters are sufficient for printing a daily newspaper. The thorough knowledge of two thousand well selected characters...
